- Cut strips of coloured paper – 1½ - 2 cm wide (use a metal ruler & blade or guillotine). Strips need to be wide enough to cover your pattern.
- Fold over approximately 2mm of the strips of paper length wise - run the edge of a ruler along the fold - to give a nice edge to work with.
- Place the pattern on your work bench, face up – secure it with some magic tape (so you can remove easily for use again).
- Place the card cut-out face down on top of the pattern – secure with some magic tape so it doesn't move. You should be able to see the complete pattern through the card opening.
- Using the colours suggested place the folded strips of paper against the line in order of each numbered section.
- Using magic tape, secure the left- and right-hand sides of the strips, making sure you don't have tape showing from the front.
- When all coloured strips have been attached, cut out a piece of holographic paper a little larger than the 'H' section. Adhere this with tape on all sides.
- Unsecure the card, turn over and admire your handy work.
- Attach the Iris Folding card to a readymade blank greeting card or cut out a piece of nice card and create a greeting card for that special person...
